“ Grandma it is killing that I can't be there with the rest of the family to see you off to a better life. You were and still are the best grandma this world had ever been blessed with. Even though I couldn't be there today I know that you will always be looking over me saying, "that's my baby brown eyed baby boy!" Thank you for always being there for me when I needed you the most.. I will miss until we meet again in a better life. I love you grandma for now and until the end of this life.

“ Edna was a very kind & sweet lady. I had the honor of being one of her Nurses at Providence Assisted Living. She always had a smile and a kind word. Heaven gained a wonderful angel. Prayers for the family during this time.

“ Grandma was not a quilt maker nor did she consider herself crafty, but she helped make me make this for her grandson. It was several years back when she came to Wisconsin and stayed with Lee and I for about a month. We made this quilt and during the process I heard stories that I had never heard before. This was the first time I noticed her Alzheimers.

“ Edna Welch was a caring, loving lady, She was like a second mother to me. I lived on Porter Street when her and Lindle lived on Cheatham. Seemed like I was constantly over at their house all the time and would take care of me when my mother had things to do with my Autistic sister. The one memory that really stands out was when my father left me, my mother and sister when I was 11 years old.

She voluntarily out of her good heart took me and Lindle to go and see a movie that night on the day that my dad left and then the next day she took us to DogPatch, USA. She took my mind off what happened and really helped in my situation. I will also be grateful for all the things she did for me.

Sincerely and Loving,

“ I did not "know" Edna, but I met her the day her son, Lindle, and my granddaughter, Laurie, were married. She seemed very nice. I understand her life had been difficult of late, and I'm sure she is celebrating her release from pain, etc., and is happy to be in her heavenly home. May her family find comfort in knowing they will see her again.
