“ My heart's desire is to ease your pain at this time of sorrow. I rest solidly knowing that you will be joined with her one day in heaven.

I have always enjoyed hearing the stories of my mom (Glenda) and Aunt Gloria visiting with their cousins in Arkansas growing up. Anytime I have been there to visitng family, it was always a pleasure to spending time with the Youngman Family.

May the Lord give you peace and strength at this time.

“ Unfortunately, I can not attend the funeral today.?

?Today is a day of both sorrow and excitement for me. For it has been several years since I have seen my aunt Betty and even more since my Uncle Don passed away. I take a moment to enjoy the thought that they may both be celebrating together in the prescience of the Lord. As I get older I think that the natural progression of life makes me cherish the memories of my youth even more. The thoughts of a dozen Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners spent with my aunt and uncle flood my memory. Those thoughts bring great joy to me as I relive the moments by telling my girls of past events. I am comforted by the thought that one day I will be able to celebrate in song and praise of the Lord right next to my aunt, uncle and many others the Lord has taken home before me.?
