“ Hard to believe you are really gone. Just the week prior to your passing you were talking about for the first time in your life wanting to be boujee like the people in downtown Bentonville at the square coming in and out of shops and eating at Table Mesa. Wanting to get a job and get right. Ambition to improve and do better for your daughter and Taylor. You expressed would love her till death. Who knew it would come so soon. May you rest and peace no longer having to worry about acceptance from others. Fly high buddy.

“ Carl when I met you I seen that you were determined to change everything about what was going on in your life. You were so about starting a new fresh happy life, you were building others up no matter the situation. You were always there to lift my spirits when I couldn't find a solution... You selflessly put your heart out there for others even when you had your own down falls. Man I'm gon miss you bub. Fly high and know that your daughter is and will be inspired by you. You are so loved Carl. May you rest in peace.

“ Carl we all basically grew up together. Me you and Tyler. You always had a smile on your face. Life in a sense was like baseball kept throwing things at you you would curve and miss some you would hit right back others it hit you but you always got back up. When you had Emma you change in the best way possible. The love in your heart and the light in your eyes. You ALWAYS had a smile when your beautiful daughter was by you. You had and will always have a big family that love you and a daughter who will never forget you you and will know how much her daddy loved her. I miss you cousin I truly do. I'm sorry I didn't get up there to see you but I do know your in a better place so do me a favor find Your Uncle James and give him a hug and tell him his daughter misses him and may you fly as high as you want with those beautiful wings that I know you have wrapped around your mom and dad and your baby girl. I love you cousin Carl.
