

Kelly Allison Gregory

June 14, 1956 - February 18, 2024

Kelly was loved by many people all around the world. Having grown up in Australia, Kelly attended Clyde All Girls' Boarding School from second grade through graduation, where she then flew home and obtained her American diploma as well.

Kelly then began a career in trucking; she bought her own 1980 379 Peterbilt and set to the road, often appearing in Newspapers and the like. Kelly typically wore high heels and dresses when she drove her truck cross-country, with her pet rabbit, Melton (ironically named after the trucking company she was leased on to.)

Kelly had a keen eye for fashion. She worked at T.J. Maxx, her favorite store of all time, for a couple of years before being recruited to work at Dillard's. She worked as the Watch Specialist there and boy, was she a salesman! She was quick-witted and always made funny remarks to keep the client engaged. She could convince anyone into buying anything! She worked at Dillard's for several more years before her health took a turn for the worse, and she had to take a medical leave.

Kelly went through a spiral of health issues before finally turning them over to the Lord.

Out of everything Kelly has done, she is most noted for being a wonderful mother and keeping a beautifully kept home. Kelly was an upstanding mother to both of her children.

Kelly is predeceased by her father, James Gregory, her mother, Shirley Johnson (Gregory) Bechtold, and her brother, Johnson Wesner Gregory. Kelly is survived by her children, Gregory Wesner and Kelsey McKenzie Williams, and her ex-spouse, Richard Williams, along with everybody else who loved her as family.

Kelly's daughter will be orchestrating a Celebration of Life for March 24, 2024, by invitation only.
