“ Ricky was a good guy considering his upbringing. I witnessed first hand how poorly his father treated him, yet Rick loved him unconditionally. Rick was always so happy to receive ANY gifts for Christmas. I can remember him being so happy because mom and dad would give him a carton of cigarettes for Christmas. I'm not sure he ever got much, if anything at home for Christmas. Rick was my brother in law and he put up with a lot of crap from me when I was a kid. Yet, he was always willing to take me fishing with him, show me how to work on engines a little, or just be there. He was a hard worker, not a lazy man, and most usually willing to help others. Very likable. I think mostly I'll remember him as having a good heart deep down.
