

William Scott Rutherford

October 25, 1974 - April 6, 2026

William Scott Rutherford, 51, of Rogers, Arkansas, passed away unexpectedly on April 6, 2026.

Scott was born on October 25, 1974, in Price, Utah. He lived a life defined by hard work, resilience, and a deep commitment to his family. Known for his steady nature and determination, Scott approached life with quiet strength and a willingness to always provide for those he loved. He also took great pride in his work and genuinely enjoyed being part of the pest control industry, where his strong work ethic and dedication were evident to those who knew him professionally.

He found joy in the simple moments—especially when it meant being surrounded by the people he cared about. Scott had a deep love for camping and the outdoors, always looking for any opportunity to get out of the house and bring everyone together. Whether it was family or friends, he wanted everyone there, creating memories around the campsite that will never be forgotten. He also enjoyed playing a round of golf and creating lasting memories with his family through outings like escape rooms, where his sense of humor and problem-solving always stood out - even though we all knew he acted like he was solving the puzzles, and waited for others to find the clues.

Scott also had a love for gaming and made it something special for his family

—he made sure everyone had an Xbox so they could play together, bringing them into a shared hobby that created countless laughs, competition, and time spent connected. It was one of the many ways he brought his family closer and created lasting memories.

Above all, Scott valued his role as a father and family man. He took pride in his children and cherished the time he spent with them. His presence, guidance, and love will remain a lasting influence in their lives.

He is preceded in death by his son, Cameron Rutherford, and his mother, Sherrie Lynn Foster.

Scott is survived by his son, Levi Rutherford and wife, Alexa Rutherford, along with their expected daughter, Parker Kate; his daughters, Kayla Rutherford and Aria Rutherford; his father, Donald Rutherford; and his brother, Don Rutherford. He also leaves behind extended family members and many friends who will remember him for his loyalty, his quiet kindness, and the impact he made on those around him.

A visitation will be held on Saturday, April 11, 2026, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. at Sisco Funeral Chapel in Springdale, Arkansas.

Scott's passing leaves a void that cannot be filled, but his memory will live on in the hearts of those who knew and loved him. He will be deeply missed and forever remembered

“ I would have left something so much sooner but this is the first post I've seen of Scott's service, I just wanted to say im Scott's younger cousin by about 5 or 6 years and when we were younger I just thought he was the coolest! I actually would get sooo mad at him when he started dating and wouldn't let me tag along haha. He gave me and my sister a chew one time and told us to swallow it and we got sooo sick 🤢 lol. He was always playing pranks on us. He was super good at nintendo 64 Mario Brother's, we would play for HOURS with him. He taught me how to "turtle tip" the turtles shells to get all the extra life's you could ever want. Uncle Don had this waaay cool red camaro that I got to go for a ride with Scott in just a couple times and very short rides to the market and back, because well...that car was uncle dons baby! I'm gonna really miss him and it sucks hes gone, I know his memory will live on in his kids. I'm sad I've never met any of them but I guess thats what happens when we all grow up and move all over the place. No matter what though, no amount of distance will replace the fact we're all family and my condolences go out to all of you, your all in my thoughts and prayers.

So much love Crystal Peczuh

“ Scott and I were out fishing at Beaver Lake on this little 8 ft boat I had. We had been out most of the day didn't really catch much when we decided to move to another spot. All this boat had was a trolling motor so you could imagine how slow we were moving across Beaver lake, anyways Scott started rocking the boat just as hard as he could when all of a sudden there was a big splash, I turned around and seen that he had rocked himself right off the boat. He was holding in to the seat he took over with him and was yelling at me to get the boat over to him before he drowned, I was laughing so hard I was crying and almost ran over him with the trolling motor. We may not have caught alot of fish that day but we sure had a great day and we always had alot of good times. Love you brother

“ Although I only got to experience 6 short years with Scott, I am grateful that I got to call him my father in law. Scott will be remembered most for the joy he brought into everyday moments and the way he made family feel like home - even before Levi and I were married he welcomed me in with open arm's. Holidays, especially Christmas, were never complete without his legendary tamale eating contests—always insisting he could out-eat Dallas or Levi and never backing down from a challenge.

He proudly stood by his claim of having the best breakfast burrito, though Ana still holds the unofficial title in the family debate. Scott had a way of turning meals into memories, especially when he would request his favorite meal I make—lasagna (he seriously would eat it everyday)—and make sure family dinners were always something to look forward to.

He also loved time spent together doing escape rooms, where his role was often “supervisor” of clue-finding. He would stand back acting like he was carefully analyzing everything while waiting for Ana or me to solve the puzzle—unless he accidentally pulled a little too hard on something and ended up solving it himself. Those moments perfectly captured his humor and the way he made everything more fun just by being there.

He was a proud dad who poured everything into his kids, always showing up with love, support, and pride in all they did. He was also so excited about becoming a grandpa this summer. We will always make sure Parker knows how much he loved her before she was born, and how deeply he was already looking forward to meeting her.

He loved being surrounded by his people, whether it was watching sports with Levi and friends, sharing laughs, or simply being part of the conversation. Those moments—simple, loud, competitive, and full of love—are what we will miss the most.

“ Anna, Jill, Levi & Alexa and Family.

My heart is heavy for you all this week. You are very much in my prayers. Scott and I raised a lot of hell in our early days together. It was mostly him, but I gladly took the co-pilot seat! :)

I have watched him navigate through a lot of obstacles in his life, but I've also watched him grow into a strong, caring, loving, father, and man over the years.

We don't always know how to make the right decisions as we go through this life and there's no manual that tells us what to do but I know Scott did the very best he could with what he had,

I believe that he is at peace and I will pray for all of you as you heal and find your peace. He has definitely left a void in all of our lives.

“ I have many memories of Scott from the years we were married—nearly a decade filled with life’s ups and downs, laughter, and lessons along the way. There were good times, hard times, and plenty of moments in between that shaped a lifetime of memories.

He loved to fish, enjoyed a good game of golf and poker, and we all had fun calling his bluff at the poker table. He was a loyal fan of the Chicago Bears and valued time spent with his friends. Scott also had a love for animals and a habit of bringing them home one after another—Sugar, Creepers, and, much to my hesitation, Jake the ball python, who somehow became one of Levi’s best companions.

Even after our divorce, there were ups and downs, but co-parenting Levi was never a question—he made sure of that.

More than anything, he loved his children and took pride in being their dad.

Those memories will never be forgotten. The greatest part of Scott lives on through his children—their personality, their resilience, their love, and their beauty.

Levi, I love you so much, and my heart is with you as you walk through the loss of your father.

“ I've known Scott through my dad my whole life. He watched me grow up and eventually I started joining in playing games with them. I've always enjoyed the times we played games together and joked around. He really knew how to brighten everyone's day and have a good time. He'll be in our hearts and minds every time we play.
